Dear Dean Newsom:

STAT
The Central Intelligence Agency is pleased to learn that the Institute for the Study of Diplomacy at Georgetown University is interested in continuing its participation in our Officer-in-Residence program. I understand that you have already talked to our candidate, [redacted] and are agreeable to his replacing [redacted] who has been with the Institute for the past two years. I am sure that you will agree that [redacted] is a very qualified officer and will fit into your program with ease.

The Central Intelligence Agency's Officer-in-Residence Program provides the opportunity for senior-level officers to disengage from their normal duties by fully participating in the academic life, including research and teaching. The Officer-in-Residence is identified as a CIA officer. Our expectation is that the officer, by his presence, will demonstrate the quality of CIA people and our commitment to providing U.S. leaders with the very best intelligence we can. The program also serves to strengthen our professional ties to a fertile and indispensable source of ideas and technical expertise and to enhance CIA's recruiting efforts by providing an opportunity for experienced officers to serve as role models, to counsel interested students on career opportunities with CIA, and to respond to concerns students may have about the Agency and the intelligence profession.
